

The ladies in blue took on the red devils for another WSL derby tie and it did not disappoint. The game, which took place at the Etihad saw 40,086 in attendance and it was definitely a game you didn't want to miss, unless you are a United fan as they seemed to leave after about 60 minutes but what is new there? I am still unsure if they know how long a football game is supposed to last.

Both sides played well with it being very tense in parts but our girls just pulled it out of the bag with some incredible performances. Especially from player of the match Jess Park who definitely deserved it with her 2 goals and an assist. She was on fire! A special mention to Khiara Keating for some impressive saves and Yui Hasegawa too as she created some amazing shots with a lot of power, it was just a shame that they didn't follow through but nevertheless, an incredible performance from city women.

This now puts us top of the table with the same goal difference as Chelsea which means that preferably they would draw or lose to West Ham United to keep a bit of a gap. But for now, we are once again reminded that Manchester is blue!
